CAPE ANN AN ISLAND.

Changes on Massachusetts Coast Made by Deepening the Annisquam.

It is Cape Ann no longer, says the Boston Transcript. Properly speaking it should be Ann Island, although the old designation will probably stick. The dredging and deepening of the Annisquam river and the new cut clear across the neck to Gloucester Harbor is responsible for it.

The new waterway, which has been constructed with no beating of drums or blowing of trumpets, is highly appreciated by the fishermen and coasters, who are thereby able to avoid the rock promontory and the reefs of Thatcher's Island and the Salvages.

The first exemplification of the new channel's advantage was made one day last week, when a new schooner, built at Essex, took advantage of the high tide and came for her spars and outfitting direct to Gloucester by Annisquam and through the river and canal. Otherwise it would have been necessary to tow her around the cape.

Pretty Entertainment of Magazine Club.

A pretty morning function was made of the final meeting of the Magazine club for the season. Mrs. Robert Becker Phillips was the club hostess at her idyllic country home, "Woodland," on Tuesday morning, entertaining in honor of her house guests, Mrs. John Arnold Bell and Mrs. Frank O. Watts, of Nashville, Tenn. A large number of visitors outside of the club members were present.

The meeting was held in the large living room, which was an attractive symphony of the springtime with its flowers, harmonizing with the artistic details of the room. The program featured included some delightful music by Miss Lula Reed and Miss Mary Scott and two charming vocal solos by Miss Julia Scott. Miss Helen Lowry reported an interesting trip "From Marseilles to Genoa Along the Riviera" from a current magazine and Mrs. Charles K. Wheeler gave in a bright and agreeable way William Allen White's delightful story, "The Passing of Priscilla Winthrop," in "Our Town."

At the business session of the club Miss Anna Webb, the retiring president, and Mrs. James Campbell Flournoy, the vice-president, resigned from the club. Mrs. Louis M. Riecke and Miss Julia Scott were elected to their places. Miss Helen Lowry was elected vice-president in Mrs. Flournoy's place. Miss Webb and Mrs.

A beautifully appointed course luncheon was served at noon. The small tables being attractively set.

Besides the two honor guests the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. W. P. Troy, of Huntington, Tenn.; Mrs. Albert Reidehead, of Minneapolis; Miss Jane Skemington, of Dyersburg, Tenn.; Miss Rose English, of Louisville; Miss Edith Smith, of Hillsboro, Ohio.

Mrs. Cleugh and Mrs. Young U. D. C. Hostesses.

The Paducah chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was prettily entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Henry Horace Cleugh and Mrs. James A. Young at the home of their mother, Mrs. S. H. Clark, 901 Clay street. It was a delightful social occasion and a number of guests were present beside the chapter, which is quite large. The house was effectively decorated with American Beauty roses and white ribbons, carrying out the red and white colors of the Confederacy. The delightful three-course luncheon was attractively served in the red and white motif, a pretty emphasis being given by the ice cream and strawberry course. Mrs. H. H. Duley presided at the punch table in the library.

It was a Morgan afternoon in tribute to the gallant Kentuckian, Gen. John H. Morgan. Miss Mary K. Sowell, the corresponding secretary of the chapter, gave a brightly written sketch of the life of the dashing Morgan. "When We Two Were Maying" was pleasingly sung by Mrs. Lela Wade Lewis and Mrs. W. C. Gray. Mrs. H. H. Duley recited very effectively the poem, "Kentucky Belle," which is descriptive of the horse of Morgan. Miss Anne Bradshaw sang very sweetly and was accompanied by Miss Lula Reed.

Mrs. Cleugh and Mrs. Young are interested members of the Paducah chapter, now living away. They have spent a portion of the winter and spring with their mother and will leave this month. Mrs. Cleugh for her home in British Columbia, going by way of the Pacific coast, and Mrs. Young to join her husband in the east at the close of his theatrical season.

Carpe Diem Club.

The Carpe Diem Club was pleasantly entertained by Miss Theresa Kitchin on Tuesday evening at her pretty home in the country. There were four tables at each end of the contest for the honors was very close. Miss Marie Roth carried off the head prize for the girls and Miss Audrey Taylor won the lone hand prize in a cut with Miss Kate Grogan. Miss Elizabeth Kelley received the consolation prize. Mr. John Mulherson and Mr. Gus Legeay cut for first honors for the men, Mr. Mulherson winning. The lone hand went to Mr. Joseph Roth in a cut with Mr. John Moller. Dr. Edward Farley and Mr. George Moller cut for the booby. Mr. Moller being successful. A delightful luncheon was served after the game. Those present were: Misses Maggie Lydon, Hazel Ashoff, Anna Harlan, Marie Roth, Kate Grogan, Audrey Taylor, Elizabeth Kelly; Messrs. John Mulherson, Gus Legeay, Albert Roth, Clifford Blackburn, George Moller, Joseph Roth, John Moller and Dr. Edward Farley.

Paducah Visitors.

The Nashville Banner of Thursday under the above head, says: "Mrs. John Arnold Bell and Mrs. P. O. Watts, who have been visiting Mrs. Robert B. Phillips in Paducah, Ky., are expected home tonight. They have been charmingly entertained during their week's visit in Paducah. They have been the honorees and guests at a round of social affairs the past week. Tuesday afternoon they were among the guests at an unique card party given by Mrs. Thos. Crawford Leech. It was an Egyptian party and the tallies were Egyptian post cards, which, with the prizes, were bought by Mrs. Leech during her recent sojourn in Egypt. The first prize was a charming study of an Egyptian woman, entitled "Meditation." The lone-hand prize was an Egyptian sword in a beaded scabbard, an attractive 'curio. The visitors' prize, the most typical bit of Egyptian life, a beautifully beaded fly-beater, without which life is unendurable even in Egypt. The booby prize was a dainty chain of shells from "up the Nile." The Oriental colors were artistically carried out in the decorations of the attractive home and in the luncheon.

The Paducah Evening Sun of Tuesday contained an elaborate notice of a complimentary affair from which the following notice is taken:

"Mrs. Robert Becker Phillips was hostess of the Magazine Club, this morning at her attractive country home, Woodland, in honor of her house guests, Mrs. John Arnold Bell and Mrs. Frank O. Watts of Nashville, Tenn. It was a pretty May party with the spring idea delightfully emphasized in its details. The program featured several musical numbers as well as the magazine discussions.

"Mrs. Phillips served a beautifully appointed course luncheon at 1 o'clock. In addition to the guests of honor the out-of-town visitors included: Mrs. W. P. Troy of Huntington, Tenn.; Miss English of Louisville; Miss Skemington of Dyersburg; Miss Edith Smith of Hillsboro, O."
